Heartland Public Radio Retransmission Consent

The mission of Heartland Public Radio, Inc. is as follows:

Heartland Public Radio is a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving and broadcasting the traditional sounds of Classic Country music and the soul-soothing sounds of Bluegrass Gospel music to the entire world via the Internet without commercial interruptions. Our mission is to keep this music alive and available for future generations free of charge by making these broadcasts accessible via as many devices as possible including smart phones, tablet computers, set-top Internet Media Streamers, laptops and desktop computers.

As such, and in accordance with our mission, Heartland Public Radio, Inc. grants all end users full consent to retransmit any of our broadcast signals at any time using any technology or means to do so. Such retransmissions may take place for any duration as the end user sees fit. If the end user wishes to give credit to us as the source of the broadcasts, credit may be given to: "Heartland Public Radio at www.hpr.org".

End users who retransmit Heartland Public Radio's reprogramming are not required to notify us of such actions. However, if the end user wishes to contact us and let us know they are rebroadcasting our programming, he/she may do so via email at support@hpr.org or by telephone at 417-243-0043.

Thank you for helping us fulfill our mission by delivering our programming to as many more listeners as possible.

Sincerely,

George Fair
President, Heartland Public Radio, Inc.
